

Kuro Goma Ice Cream | Japan Yokohama

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 07 January 2010 20:58

---

Have you ever try a black ice cream? Vanilla, strawberry, chocolate, coffee, mango, orange and some other flavours including rainbow ice cream can be found anywhere and they are very common.

During our visit to Japan Yokohama China Town, we noticed a black colour ice cream. It is now winter season in Japan, but the cold weather does not stop us from trying this unfamiliar colour ice cream. It is a black sesame flavour ice cream which cost 260 yen. Kuro means black and Goma means sesame in Japanese.

The first taste of the ice cream is like tasting a sesame oil, just like you are eating sweet sesame oil. But after that, we really enjoy the sesame taste that melted in our mouth. The texture of the ice cream is very soft. It is very delicious and special.

The ice cream does not melt at all due to the cold weather here in Japan. It was such a wonderful experience that we can enjoy the ice cream during the winter time. We will definitely miss the kuro goma ice cream and the time we spent here.

Kuro Goma Ice Cream | Japan Yokohama

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 07 January 2010 20:58

Back to eating the great stuff you like to wish everyone a Happy New Year!